L. A. BRIDGE PETITION IS SIGNED UP

Consolidated Forces of San Fernando and West End Succeed

EVERYTHING READY

Union Brings Strength to Movement for Connection With Park

The seven petitions circulated yesterday and today, as a result of the meeting of Broadway property owners and representatives of various civic organizations at Pollock's garage on Tuesday night, asking that the city council designate Broadway as the street to be extended and improved with a bridge over the Los Angeles river to connect Glendale with Griffith Park, have been turned over to the committee for presentation to the council.

At the meeting Tuesday night representatives of the San Fernando Boulevard Improvement Assocviation, the East side Improvement Association and the East Broadway Improvement Association met with property owners of West Broadway discussed satisfactorily the proposed bridge and united on the site.

This proposed bridge has been assured the city and the city planning commission of Los Angeles has indicated that it remains for Glendale to designate the street to be extended. Park avenue and Colorado avenue have been suggested as possibilities but it seems to be the consensus of opinion that Broadway is the most logical street to have the connecting bridge. Several reasons have been advanced for this opinion but the favorite is that Broadway is a cross town street from the city limits on the east to the western boundary and has been set aside as a business street. It was to discuss the feasibility of securing the bridge for Broadway and learn the opinion of the people most concerned that the meeting last night was called.

No permanent organization was formed as the representatives of other civic organizations indicated they would support the movement to secure the bridge for any street that was decided on. Albert Reed was appointed temporary chairman of the meeting and E. L. Osborn secretary.

Herman Nelson, cashier and manager of the Glendale avenue branch of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank, stated he was in favor of Broadway as the street to be extended.

Lloyd Wilson, representing the San Fernando Boulevard improvement association, said that while he is of the opinion that West Broadway is the most logical street he did not think that it was feasible. He was of the opinion that Park avenue is the most feasible but stated that his organization will support the movement to secure the improvement for Broadway if this street is selected.

Mr. Yard, who has been working for several years to secure the bridge across the Los Angeles river at West Broadway, said he has secured an agreement from the owners of the property on the Los Angeles side of the city line at West Broadway in which they will dedicate a street as a continuation of Broadway from the Southern Pacific tracks to the Los Angeles river.

The committee headed by Mr. Yard, was appointed to further investigate the extension of Broadway and the possibility of securing the bridge. They were instructed to circulate the petitions for presentation to the council and to take the matter up with that body at is next meeting.

Another meeting will be called by the committee after the meeting with the city council.

PUBLIC SERVICE TO HAVE NEW HOME

Work will start within a short time on the new home of the public service department of Glendale, this building to be constructed close to the municipal garages on Howard street. This building will be constructed entirely of steel and will cost about $13,000. When completed this building will house the water and lighting departments and the purchasing agent's office.

Up to the present time the warehouse of the public service department has been located on the east side of Howard street, but so rapidly has this department grown that the building has become entirely too small to fill the needs of the department. At the same time the business section of this department needs more room. By moving the offices of the public service employees into the new building more room will be left in the city hall for the business section of this department.

The city has available funds for the erection of this building, and the construction, after being started, will be rushed.

Only Truth Abides Service Is Truth of Wealth—Foley

Only Truth abides. And Truth of Beauty is Love. And the Truth of Power is Justice. And the Truth of Wealth is Service.

The above quotation is from tonight's "Listening Post," the philosophical column contributed by James W. Foley, poet-humorist and philosopher, whose articles and verse appear exclusively in this newspaper.

No newspaper on the Pacific coast has writing for its editorial page any finer or bigger men than write for this paper.

For proof of this turn tonight to the editorial page and read the able editorials, the comment by Henry James on the news of the day, the article by Dr. Frank Crane, the features by Della Stewart and John Pilgrim.

It is a privilege to read this editorial page and the privilege is enjoyed exclusively by the readers of this newspaper. Then turn to Foley's Friendly Fancies, a bit of verse each evening that has its heart appeal and its sentiment.

NEW PLANS FOR HI SCHOOL ARE EXPLAINED

Shown by Representative of Architect's Office at Meeting

The big thing about the meeting of the trustees of Glendale High, Wednesday night, so far as citizens are concerned, was the new plans for the buildings on the high school site, submitted and explained by Mr. Ashley from the office of Architect Austin. From the viewpoint of pupils the big thing was the vote to make Monday, as well as Tuesday, (Decoration Day) a school holiday. When announcement was made at the various assemblies there was heavy cheering. The sentiment seemed to be, "We like school, but, vacations! O my!"

Captain Watson, president of the board, reported titles to all property purchased by the board now clear in the district except the acreage proposed to be obtained from Mr. Liggett on which more time will be needed to close the escrow.

George Mishler, owner of Colorado frontage, appeared before the board relative to the purchase of his holdings, but the board advised him it was not able to take action at this time. He was asked to submit the terms of an option that would be acceptable to him at a subsequent meeting when the board would take the matter under consideration.

The request of Miss Gardner, dramatic teacher, for a six months' leave of absence on account of the ill health of her mother, was granted.

The board then gave its attention to the plans with which members were much pleased, as they will be unique, unlike what has been worked out in other schools. They have the effect of making the outline of the buildings more irregular and therefore more artistic, of also making a more compact grouping, and last and most important, of separating the auditorium from the class rooms and bringing it forward on the front line, where it can be used as a civic center without encroaching at all on school activities. It will also have a semi-diamond shape with aisles converging to the stage which will have a seating capacity on the ground floor for 1500, also a balcony, and above that a gallery which will give a total seating capacity of 2700.

At the left of this auditorium and separated from it on the ground floor by a corridor will be a study hall, class rooms for mathematics and other class rooms which will be arranged around a central court open to the Broadway side. On the second story in this wing will be the library and English and history class rooms overlooking the court, the art department also overlooking the court and getting the north light, and on the west side of the court, cooking and sewing departments.

Mr. Ashley was instructed to have his office begin work at once on details for these plans.

REDLANDS GIRL WINS CONTEST

Miss Grace Mueller Takes Diamond Medal in Oratorical Contest

S. FERNANDO LEADS

Competitions Feature the Evening Session of Big Convention

Miss Grace Mueller of Redlands won the diamond medal at the W. C. T. U. oratorical contest at the Methodist church last night against four competitors. She took for her subject, "The Power of Law." Rev. M. M. Patch of the Pasadena university delivered an address on the evils of the narcotic habit. Mrs. L. B. Tinkler, representing San Bernardino county, was presented with a loving cup, awarded to the county doing the best work during the past year.

The diamond medal oratorical contest was the feature of the evening. The contestants were introduced by Mrs. Mary M. Haddow, who was in turn presented by State President Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler. The contestants were given numbers, and one of the disappointing features about the contest was that they were not introduced when the turn of each came to speak.

In addition to Miss Mueller, the contestants included Lucile Harbauer of Redlands, whose subject was "Lincoln"; Miss Inga Carter of San Bernardino, who gave "The Two Home Comings"; Mary Lewis of Redlands, who spoke on "Out of the Depths," and Richard Arbograst, who delivered one of William Jennings Bryan's orations on the abuse of the saloon keeper. The work of all of the contestants was very well received and the decision of the judges was a popular one.

The cup that was given to Mrs. Tinkler was awarded to the county organization doing the most effective work during the past year. During this time the San Bernardino county organization has been on the job every minute and there are very few counties in the entire country that surpassed it when actual work is taken into consideration. In receiving the cup Mrs. Tinkler said she felt highly honored as a representative of her county at being presented with the cup, and stated that she expected her county to do better work the coming year than it did in the year just ended.

"The spirit of moral reform is upon us," said Rev. M. M. Patch, state superintendent of anti-narcotics of the young people's branch, "and in the interest of the people as a whole the use of tobacco must go, for there is not a menace that is more blighting. It robs the user of energy and takes away his ambition. How are we to stamp out this terrible evil which is without doubt the greatest in our land? Only by united effort can this be done. The people must be educated as to the evils of this habit, otherwise the country is doomed.

"Although the waste of money is the least disastrous effect of this habit, this feature must not be overlooked. In 1919 $2,000,000,000 was spent in this country for tobacco, and during 1921 $2,500,000,000 was spent for this drug. One of the largest insurance companies says that 75 per cent of the fires result from the use of tobacco—the discarded match, the smouldering cigarette or cigar stub, etc., being responsible for the trouble.

"The degrading influence of the habit is blighting the men and women of society. It is not at all unusual these days to be insulted by having tobacco smoke blown into your face by some passerby. The surprising part about the whole thing is that a large percentage of the users of tobacco are clean along practically all other lines. Although it is not generally known, it is a fact that there is enough poison in one pound of tobacco to kill 200 men if all of it were absorbed by the human system. In fact, there is enough poison in a single cigarette to kill the average man. If the nicotine of this year's crop of tobacco were collected it would be sufficient to kill all the inhabitants of the world. The use of tobacco doubled during the late war. If the cigarettes that were used in 1918 were placed end to end, the line would encircle the globe 74 times.

"And still you hear the cry, 'I am entitled to my personal liberty.' The fellow who thinks he is enjoy-

CITY POUND IS CROWDED WITH CAPTURED DOGS

Police Ask People to Reclaim Pets or Adopt Animal

The city dog pound is crowded. The police department has issued a call for help. They ask the owners of the impounded dogs to claim them. Dog lovers in Glendale are also invited to visit the pound and pick out a dog. Between fifteen and twenty dogs are in the city pound.

The poundmaster is at the city pound every day at 4 p. m. He will release any animal to the owner or anyone who wants the dog, upon being shown a receipt for the city dog license.

Chief of Police Fraser said this morning: "If there is anyone in Glendale who wants a dog, now is the time to get it. There is almost every known breed at the pound and some of the dogs appear to be valuable animals. These dogs will be released to anyone who pays the license and will muzzle the dog."

There is some misunderstanding in the minds of a few people in Glendale. They believe that a license is not required for a dog that is kept in the house. This belief is wrong, as every dog in the city must have a license and every dog must have a muzzle unless it is kept in a closed yard at all times.

MOTHER CONGRESS OPENS SESSIONS

In the beautiful civic auditorium of San Diego, amid a magnificient setting, and with a large representation of delegates from all over the state, the Twenty-third Annual Convention California Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Association opened their meeting on Tuesday. Dr. Jessie A. Russell responded to the address of welcome.

There were quite a few visitors from other states because of the National convention having been recently held in Washington. It was for the purpose of speaking at this meeting that Gov. Stephens made a special trip South.

The delegates from Glendale including, Dr. Jessie A. Russell, Mrs. John Robert White, Mrs. Raymond Horner, Mrs. W. E. Evans, Mrs. E. B. Moore, Mrs. Fred Hartman had their headquarters at the Hotel Grant.

Information regarding the manufacturer could not be learned at the chamber of commerce other than that he is from Chicago and is engaged in the manufacture of fruit cake.

MISS FREDERICKA GREVE IS FOUND DEAD

Neighbors Summon Police Who Break Into Home and Recover Body

Responding to a telephone call from neighbors Chief of Police Fraser entered the home of Miss Fredericka Greve, 1127 East Broadway this morning and found her lying on the floor dead. She had evidently been dead for several hours. A summary examination satisfied Chief Fraser that death had resulted from heart trouble. There was no evidence of foul play or suicide.

Mrs. M. L. Morgan, 1123 East Broadway made the report. She telephoned to the police that no one had seen Miss Greve this morning and that attempts to erter the house were useless as the door was locked. She said that neighbors looking through the rear door could see what they believed to be the woman's hands, and that the woman was apparently on the floor.

Chief Fraser answered the call and climbing through a window entered the woman's bedroom where he found the body on the floor beside the bed clad only in her underclothing.

Mrs. Julia Dohr, who occupies half of the Greve house said that she heard something fall in the room occupied by Miss Greve between 6 and 7 o'clock this morning. When Miss Greve did not feed her chickens at the usual hour she became worried and notified Mrs. Freitag, 1231 East Broadway, a very close friend to Miss Greve. Mrs. Freitag notified Mrs. Morgan who called the police.

Miss Greve who is 57 years old, had been in ill health for several months. According to Mrs. Morgan who visited the woman yesterday, she appeared to be in better health than at any time in the past month.

The coroner was notified of the death and gave instructions to turn the body over to an undertaker. Pulliam & Kiefer were notified and have the body in their care.

William Greve, an electrician, living at 1656 Micheltorena avenue, Los Angeles, brother of the dead woman, was notified and will take charge of the woman's effects today. Until his arrival the key to the house is in charge of the police.

AMERICAN LEGION TO GIVE DANCE

Jerry Parker's orchestra has been engaged for that evening. That in itself is an assurance that the dance will be a success. This orchestra is a Glendale organization and is playing its way into the hearts of Glendalians.

A large attendance is expected at this dance and the receipts will be turned over to the sick and relief committee of the local post.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY W. C. T. U.

Balloting Starts Early With No Opposition in Sight

FAVOR OLD STAFF

Separate Vote on Each Office Consumes Considerable Time

Mrs. Wheeler was re-elected uannimously to a second term as president with a few scattering complimentary votes for Mrs. Julia D. Phelps, vice president and Mrs. Hattie C. Young, recording secretary. It was found at the conclusion, an error had been made in the count and a recount was voted at the close of the morning session of the W. C. T. U. convention today.

The annual election of a state organization is usually the occasion of considerable excitement, but there was no evidence of it at the convention of the W. C. T. U. this morning, although voting was to begin at 10 o'clock. The election, which in this organization is conducted by the president, provides for a separate vote on each officer, by ballot. Under this system it may be prolonged for hours and the result not determined until late in the afternoon. The offices call for so much hard work that there is never any electioneering to secure them and it was prophesied that the present staff, which has proved most efficient, would be returned without an exception.

This is the second year of the presidency of Mrs. Eva Craven Wheeler, who is a wonderful and tactful presiding officer and hard worker. The vice president, Mrs. Julia D. Phelps, is also an old and tried worker whom it would be hard to replace with a better woman for the place. With ability she has dignity, presence and many other fine attributes. Mrs. Hattie C. Young has been the efficient recording secretary of the state organization for so many years it would be hard for the organization to conduct a convention without her. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ada Cummings, has rendered fine service, as have also Mrs. Lizzie Warren, assistant recording secretary, and the treasurer, Mrs. Clara B. Sheldon. All of these ladies are of Los Angeles.

The recommendations relative to appropriations which had been approved by the executive board at an early morning session, were submitted this morning at the regular session. They provided for allowances of $10 each for superintendents of departments, for an increase of the budget allowed for expenses of the organization. Another allowance authorized occasioned some discussion, though it was unanimously adopted by the executive board. It concerned the employment by the state association of Rev. M. Martin Patch, who addressed the convention Wednesday evening, as a field worker in the anti-narcotics department for the young people's branch. Mrs. Doughty, who made the recommendation, stated that Mr. Patch is but 18 years old, although he has the appearance of a man in his 20's. He is working his way through the College of the Nazarene and could not undertake this special work without recompense, though he is interested heart and soul and has a strong influence over young people.

One member raised the point of the criticism she had heard expressed because of the sensational statements contained in his address, for example that tobacco had killed more people than whiskey, which was likely to be challenged. Several other members of the board [illegible] statement, quoting statistics compiled by Henry Ford and published by him in a book entitled "The Little White Slaver." The declaration, they said, was based on the statements of physicians relative to deaths from tobacco [illegible].

The [illegible] prayer service led by Mrs. Hattie King, was held at 8:30 a. m., and the convention opened with a Bible lesson and prayer by Mrs. [illegible] Logie of this city, who eloquently dwelt on the love of God for the creatures of His hand.

Reports of the credentials committee and trustees of the Southern California Home, the auditor and board of trustees of Southern California W. C. T. U., and several impromptu speeches were made while voting was in progress.

The afternoon's program was one

RANDALL ATTACKS SLACKER VOTER BEFORE W.C.T.U.

Tells Members Only Votes That Count Are Cast

Striking hard at the failure of the good citizen to perform his duty at the ballot box, former Congressman Charles H. Randall, speaking to the W. C. T. U. convention this afternoon, demonstrated in mathematics the reason for bad government. He said in part:

"A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush. A ballot in the box is worth ten at home on the veranda.

"A hundred wet votes in the box will defeat a thousand dry votes deposited anywhere else.

"This is a campaign primarily to get good people to actually perform their duty. The vicious vote never won an election because it is in the majority, but because the good people stayed at home.

"The church member vote alone, if 100 per cent deposited in the ballot box, would guarantee the success of the Wright law in California, and I am not a heretic, lunatic or fanatic. Three hundred and fifty thousand persons are members of Protestant churches in California. Two-fifths of these church members reside in Los Angeles county.

"The Harris enforcement law, similar to the Wright act, was defeated two years ago by 64,000 majority. This is an average of 16 votes to each precinct. If eight church members in each precinct failed to register and eight failed to vote though registered, then the defeat was chargeable to these sixteen church members in each precinct.

"It is a notorious fact that the evils of politics and consequently the failure of government to measure up to high standards, is due almost wholly to the unfailing presence of selfish and vicious interests at the ballot box, and the unfailing absence of a large percentage of the good citizenship.

"Two years ago 386.552 California registered voters failed to go to the polls on election day. This was within 71,000 of being one-third of the entire registered vote of the state.

"But in San Francisco where the majority against the Harris enforcement act was 77,000, only 11,586 voters at the polls failed to vote on that act.

"In the balance of California, where the majority for the Harris act was 13,000, more than 110,000 failed to vote either way on the Harris act.

"This is an amazing demonstration of the fact that the wets never fail to vote upon the issue, while a sufficient percentage of those who would vote the other way, fail through indifference and carelessness to secure a victory which is theirs by the simplest rule of mathematics. The victory will be ing it.

WAR PICTURES WANTED BY THE PRESS

7000 ARE DUE DAILY IN L. A. COUNTY

Sensational Statement of Pending Influx of Tourists Is Made

RAILROADS CHECKED

Era of New Business About to Open Before Los Angeles

Seven thousand tourists daily to Los Angeles county for 30 days, is indicated by accurate railroad check, according to a sensational statement by W. O. Boyd, classified advertising manager of the Los Angeles Examiner, before the Realty Board at its luncheon yesterday.

The statement created profound astonishment but was given general credence on the facts elucidated.

The objective of the invasion of the vast horde, totalling 210,000 people, he gave as the Oberammergau Passion Play production at Hollywood.

In beginning his talk Mr. Boyd said that he felt inspired and appreciated the enthusiasm and spirit of optimism shown by the members of the Glendale Realty Board as the real estate men of Los Angeles are not so enthusiastic at present. This enthusiasm is waning because business is not quite so good as it was last year. While business is not so good now as last year it is a long way from being bad. This is indicated by the fact that every Los Angeles daily newspaper is increasing its advertising each month.

The work that is being done by the "All-Year Club" in advertising Southern California and bringing new industries to this section of the state was told by Mr. Boyd. He said that the club is advertising Southern California, not through its wonderful climate but through its natural resources and the industries already here. The "All-Year Club" has been instrumental in bringing to Los Angeles county industries valued at more than $1,500,000 during the past year.

"According to a check of all railroads there will be, starting on next Monday, more than 7000 people coming into Los Angeles each day for at least 30 days," said Mr. Boyd. Out of this large number of tourists there are many who will become interested in property in Southern California and of this number Glendale will, like other communities, get its share. The summer season for the year 1922, according to Mr. Boyd, will exceed the winter season of 1921 by 150 per cent and Los Angeles will get nine-tenths of the tourists that generally tour Europe during the summer.

This coming influx of tourists to Los Angeles and Southern California will be due, he said, largely to the staging of the Oberammergau Passion Play at Hollywood. The railroads have already reduced fares to Los Angeles from all eastern cities in preparation for this event and to prevent the overcrowding of their lines during the three months of the play.

In concluding his address Mr. Boyd said, "Los Angeles is at present suffering from a lack of real industries. This lack will be fulfilled eventually by tht 'All-Year Club.'"

E. P. Hayward, secretary of the board, called the attention of the members to the departure on Monday morning of the "End of the Trail Caravan" for San Francisco. He said that orders are for everyone making the trip to report in front of the Ambassador hotel in Los Angeles not later than 7 a. m.

ng personal liberty is mentally nbalanced. On every side we are old 'don't.' 'You must not kill, ou must not buy, sell or use dope, ou must not exceed the speed limit, you must not do this, that r the other—the world is full of hese don'ts. And to prohibit the se of tobacco, which is doing more harm than the liquor traffic ever did, comes right in line of these betterments to mankind.' There are many people who know smok- ing does harm, but they would not give it up if they were positive it would clip years from their lives. Let us have one master, even Christ.

"The W. C. T. U. is the most powerful reform movement in the world today, and it is powerful because it upholds Christ as its leader. This organization takes the stand, 'If God be for us, who can be against us?'"

During the evening Mrs. J. A. Cole favored the audience with a beautifully rendered selection en- titled, "Hear Me, Oh God."

YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONFERENCE IS WELL ATTENDED

Fellowship Supper Served to Fifty at the Meeting

The Glendale Young People's Conference being held this week in the First Presbyterian church is unusually well attended. Twenty- five young people met at the 6 o'clock hour last night for the fel- lowship supper. At 6:30 they were joined by a group of 25 or more and together assembled in the Lydia class-room for the first les- son in a series of four in training in "Christian Fundamentals" taught by Rev. Robert McQuilken.

At 7:30 the class adjourned to the Sunday school room where a large gathering of young people listened to the inspirational mess- age of Rev. McQuilken on the "Surrendered Life."

Rev. McQuiken showed how rea- sonable it is to yield to the Lord Jesus Christ. Beginning with two facts accepted by both civilized and uncivilized man — the fact of God as creator and the fact of man the creature, he asked if it were not reasonable that God the cre- ator, would reveal Himself to man the creature. Man, however, is finite and cannot understand the infinite, he declared, but as he is shown forth in finite terms, so Jesus Christ, the infinite person in finite form, came to reveal God. If Jesus Christ is God and dies on the cross for sin it is the greatest fact in history, he asserted.

Our faith rests on absolute cer- tainties, he insisted. Now we find two classes of men in the world, those who live as though God had died on the cross and those who live regardless of that fact, he stated. "He redeemed the whole world but only those are saved who accept the redemption." The cross is the dividing line. There is all the difference on which side man is. On the divine side all things are possible for there man has complete redemption won by God himself. One cannot go from one side of the cross to the other without meeting God and when the Lord is seen one must take him as Lord or not at all, he said. "If one has no interest in spiritual things, he may be sure he has never crossed from man's side to God's side of the cross," he con- cluded.

Miss Dorothy Hunt was the guest of honor on Tuesday at a jolly affair given by the Kinder- garten Teachers' club of Glendale at the home of Miss Sue Crump of 338 West Hawthorne street. Miss Hunt will soon become the bride of Albert Suillivan, also of Glendale.

The house was fragrant with pink and white sweet peas, and dainty pink crepe paper rosebuds were given as favors. The after- noon was devoted to the playing of "Hearts" and Mrs. John Cate won first prize, while consolation was awarded Miss M. Lauderdale.

Miss Hunt was presented with a beautiful piece of Rookwood pot- tery, also half dozen tea towels, which the guests hemmed for the bride-to-be.

INTERMEDIATE P. T. A. ELECTS OFFICERS

Mrs. R. C. Horner Selected President at Last Meeting

Officers for the ensuing year were elected at a meeting of the Intermediate Parent-Teacher asso- ciation held Wednesday at the school. Those elected were: Pres- ident, Mrs. R. C. Horner; vice president, Mrs. Pierson Hanning; secretary, Mrs. Hirschberger; treasurer, Mrs. H. H. Jepson; his- torian, Miss Carol Duncan; auditor, Mrs. B. L. Cline.

This was the last meeting of the year and was a most interesting one, the president, Mrs. Lydia Kulp, presiding. The forepart of the afternoon was devoted to a pro- gram furnished by the girls in Miss Gladys Sharpe's glee club, she accompanying them on the piano. The first number was a solo by Miss Kulp, accompanied by her sister on the piano. This was followed by two numbers by the chorus, "The Rustic Wedding" and "Sweet and Low," both of which were very good. Four girls from the glee club sang "The Glowing Tide" and "Hats Off." The closing number was the singing by the club of the P.-T. A. song, which was written by a blind man of Alhambra. The flag salute was then given by Miss Tyler, patriotic chairman, and at this time a rising unanimous vote of thanks was given Miss Sharpe and the girls for their splendid program.

In the absence of the regular secretary, Mrs. Helen Sawyer acted as secretary, reading the minutes of the previous meeting. The association voted $33 to finish pay- ing for the school bleachers. It was announced that the executive board, chairmen of various com- mittees and the room mothers would give a luncheon compliment- ing the teachers, early next month, the exact date to be announced later. This luncheon is in charge of the hospitality committee.

Very interesting reports from officers and chairmen of commit- tees for the entire year were read, and they were very good. After Mrs. Nathan Rigdon, publicity chairman, had read her report, she made a motion that the local newspapers be thanked for their courtesy to the association in giv- ing it gladly so much publicity throughout the year.

The association has had a beau- tiful photograph of Miss Medcalf enlarged and will frame it, and it will be hung in the office of the school.

The president, Mrs. Kulp, gave an interesting talk on what they had done this year and what they wish they might have done, but at any rate, she said, they are going forward and doing the best they can.

After the election of officers, which took place at this time, Superintendent White talked to the ladies on "What the P.-T. A. Has Done," stating that it would be easier to say what they had not done, as they had accomplished much. He said: "The P.-T. A. is the factor that keeps up the morale of the school." He spoke of the fact that at one time he taught for 12 years in one place where he never met a parent, except by acci- dent, on the street. The associa- tion between the parent and the teacher should be very great for the welfare of the pupil.

It is his opinion that the P.-T. A. eliminates 99 per cent of the trouble that might be. There is a movement on foot to open up a community playground for the summer. A sum of $800 is needed to do this and $400 of this amount has been given. They are going to ask the chamber of commerce for the remainder and the associa- tion will also help on this. A vote was taken as going on record for the encouragement of this move- ment. This playground will not be for physical [illegible] alone, but for mental as [illegible] where students may have [illegible] musical way, and [illegible] study dramatic [illegible].

Mrs. H[illegible] gave a splendid talk, com[illegible] the work of Mrs. Ku[illegible] president during the yast year [illegible] has taken an interest [illegible] worth much praise.

The [illegible]on was served by the serving [illegible]uncheon committee hos- pitality [illegible]ittee.

GLE[illegible] WI[illegible] FROM C[illegible]US

An [illegible] interesting [illegible]ion game [illegible] baseball l[illegible] to the season's champio[illegible] was played Tuesday by [illegible]en teams of Citrus Union and Glen- dale High, both of the teams having played four Central League games without having been de- feated. It was a close and hard- fought game, the final score standing 4 to 3 in favor of Glendale, whose lineup included Elmer Muff, Robert Bradbury, Charles Lundy, Arthur Cressey, Johnny Lovell, Jean Drury, Jack De Lara, Raber Beeman and Walter Driscoll.

MUTUAL BENEFIT CIRCLE HEARS OF PERSONALITY

Mrs. McLane Reviews Book of Mrs. H. B. Roberson

'A Builder of Personality," writ- ten by Mrs. H. B. Roberson, was the title of the review given by Mrs. McLane on Wednesday at the meeting of the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle, held in the public library.

Mrs. Roberson, who conducts a school of personality at Washing- ton, D. C., stated that any one may possess personality. She suggests several methods through which this may be acquired, mainly, a thorough knowledge of the individ- ual, his innermost thoughts, ac- tions and desires; a careful study of the various vocations to which he may be adapted, and a study of the biography of great men, who in all cases possess this charac- teristic.

"Personality," continued Mrs. Roberson, "is the sum total of all we have felt, done and thought. The deeper our nature the closer we live to God, and the greater love we have for humanity, the greater and farther reaching will be our personality."

In the afternoon the booklet by Frederic W. Langford, "The Religi- ous Nurture of the Little Child," was studied. This book is proving very much worth while and stimu- lating a good deal of discussion, inasmuch as the subject is one in which most mothers are profoundly interested.

SIBERIAN VETS ORGANIZE IN LOS ANGELES

HIGH SCHOOL IS TO BE SCENE OF DARING WORK

Bill Strothers to Walk Up Wall of Main Building

The big thing's on tonight. Bill Strother, the human spider, will scramble merrily up the side of the high school at 6:30 tonight. If he successfully reaches the roof he will do some daredevil stunts that will prove hair-raisers for even the most thrill-loving.

When interviewed on the sub- ject today, Bill said:

"I'm going to give the people of Glendale a run for their money, believe me. I have been at this building-climbing business for years and I'll reach the roof of the high school in record time. Some people are expecting to see me taken home in a basket, but my part in the program will consist of sending them home disappointed, so far as this feature of the pro- gram is concerned. Shortly after I completed my climb of the Ross- lyn hotel in Los Angeles I was in- vited to come to this city and do my little stunt. So here I be."

Everyone in Glendale is invited to witness this novel stunt. A col- lection will be taken before Stroth- er starts skyward, this to pay the expenses of the exhibition.

After completing this exhibition Strother will hurry up to Burbank, where he will climb up the front of Young's department store.

W. C. T. U. REALIZES BIGNESS OF ITS TASK

Review of Wednesday Afternoon Session at Big Convention

By GERTRUDE GIBBS

Yesterday afternoon's program was another link in the chain of evidence proving that the big W. C. T. U. realizes the bigness of its job and, having learned patience and steadfastness through long years of effort, is steadily working on a program of coordinated activities to bring to pass the thing for which it is striving.

The W. C. T. U. is not a debutant among organizations. It is the mother of the woman movement to which Susan B. Anthony and her little group of co-workers gave the first impulse, and the mother of the federation of the women's clubs of today. The early workers in clubdom got their first training and confidence in the W. C. T. U. One of the daughters, Mrs. Flagg of Lancaster, who spoke on "Peace," acknowledged that she is not a W. C. T. U. member but a federation club worker with a great admiration for the career of the W. C. T. U.

"Your group," said she, "has brought to the world a great message and it was a privilege to me to come."

Her talk sounded one of the high notes of the afternoon. "We will never get peace," she said, "unless we are absolutely sincere about it and can consider it as a large, fundamental thing. First, we must realize that the earth and the fullness thereof does not belong to any special group; second, that there is one race, the human race, whether its members live in China, Alaska or the United States, Germany, Russia Italy. We must be willing that these people with different development and a different view of life from ours shall have a chance to work out their development and express their life according to their views. The history of mankind is not the history of one race; it is the history of the rise and fall of races, but humanity continues at all times. The races that have existed longest have not been the military races, as witness China.

"We cannot think of peace without thinking of what we are trying to overcome—war. Why are women emphasizing peace and arbitration? It is because their training for centuries has been for peace. They have been the harmonizers of conflicting elements in the home while men have struggled to beat the other fellow. The whole commercial world is founded on competition. If a woman attempted to run her home on competitive lines, it would go to pieces at once.

"Because of the unbalance of the sexes numerically through war, we women are going to rule the world. Are we going to bring to the world this new viewpoint? If this harmonizing spirit of the home can be emphasized we can bring peace. If we adopt the psychology of men we will continue to have war."

Dr. C. Elwood Nash's ringing address was a challenge to manifest patriotism and loyalty to the republic by sustaining the Wright enforcement act at the polls in November as a ratification of the national measure known as the Volstead act. Said he:

"Will we in California stand by the constitution of the United States and stand by this flag, stand by the boys in blue and the boys in khaki, who defended it? I feel that what we need is not oratory but just simple, plain expositions of the matter.

"I am proud to have the privilege of speaking before this W. C. T. U. I had been of a different sex I would have been a unioner myself."

Years ago the W. C. T. U. found its great purpose was to be accomplished, that men and women must be strengthened and the work must begin in childhood, or even with the mother before the birth of the child. And so it has established many departments to carry on its educational work of building up the race. These departments were heard from Wednesday afternoon and introduced by an amusing little dramatic stunt picturing W. C. T. U. committee meeting to arrange for a state convention program at which a tryout of ample radiograms from the W. C. T. U. broadcasting station, was given. A big horn was placed between the curtains at the exit south of the stage and the messages of the department superintendents were broadcasted by Mrs. Hope, state and national superintendent of the department of Sunday schools, who was given the white ribbon salute when she appeared on the platform at the close of the program. Mrs. Marion Boyd Pearce was the presiding chairman and it was a clever handling of what would otherwise have been a series of monotonous reports. Before the messages began, the superintendents were called to the altar rail, where they recited in chorus the couplet:

"Flowers shower, flowers shower,
Every day and every hour," each flinging a rose to the audience as the couplet ended. They then advanced to the platform where the little ceremonial was repeated, the shower falling upon Mrs. Scarce, who is superintendent of flower missions, the state president, Mrs. Wheeler, also being showered as the ladies left the platform. Mrs. Scarce was also the recipient of a very beautiful basket of flowers and of the white ribbon salute.

The first radiogram was from Anna Gordon, national president and acting world president, greetings. Others heard from were: Mrs. Mary N. Carnes, of Ontario, evangelistic superintendent on the "Power of Prayer"; Mrs. Alice M. French of San Diego, on "Proportionate and Systematic Giving"; Mrs. Lydia Hanna of Bell, on "Americanization"; Lena C. Peters of Van Nuys, on "Narcotics"; Mrs. Mattie Gregg of Whittier on "Child Welfare"; Mrs. Etta B. Taft of Sawtelle on "Christian Citizenship"; Mrs. Elizabeth Elston of Covina on "Ballots, Not Bullets"; Dr. M. Len Hutchins on "Medical Temperance," a paraphrase of Longfellow's "Psalm of Life"; Mrs. Stella B. Irvine of Riverside on "Gifts and Bequests," a plea for an endowment fund of $25,000; Mrs. Mary M. Soman of Covina on "Co-operation With Women's Clubs"; Dr. Ella C. Howard of Long Beach on "Non-Alcoholic Flavors and Perfumes"; Mrs. L. Fanny King on "Prison Reform"; Mrs. J. N. Anderson of Santa Ana on "Enforcement Laws and Other Legislation"; Mrs. Lena Teter of Van Nuys on "Anti-Narcotics"; Mrs. Mary M. Coman of Covina, editress of "The White Ribbon," a pertinent plea for proper publicity in which every word began with a 'P.' In closing she said, "Pay, pray, push, publish, promote publicity peppily and persistently"; Mrs. Helen M. Stoddard of San Diego on "Social Morality," a plea for Frances E. Willard's standard of a "white life for two"; Mrs. Lucy Wilhoit of Uplands on "Social Welfare"; Mrs. Ada Hand of Claremont on "Glimpses of the Southern California Home"; Mrs. Ruby Smart of Glendale, "Temperance and Missions"; Mrs. Angelina Courtney on "Sunday Schools"; Mrs. J. M. Scott on "Women in Industry"; Mrs. Edna Gastrich of Fillmore on "Scientific Temperance Instruction"; Mrs. Jennie Thompson of Los Robles on "The Bible in the Public Schools."

Mrs. Belle Mulford exhibited to the convention a most interesting medal which had belonged to President Andrew Jackson and is now the property of one of his descendants.

Mrs. Coman submitted a report, financial and otherwise, of the W. C. T. U. paper, "The White Ribbon," which was highly satisfactory and approved by the auditor. Mrs. Coman received the white ribbon salute.

Before Mrs. Scarce and the ladies who assisted her in the staging of the program left the platform, they united in the declaration which they recited:

"Who will enforce the Volstead act?
We, we ,we, of course.
Who are we, staunch and true?
We're the W. C. T. U."

Mrs. Simmons Wheeler sang an enforcement song to the tune of "Hold the Fort," the audience joining in the chorus.

COLUMBIA AUTO IS TO BE SHOWN HERE

J. C. Pollock to Show New Models Now on the Way

The automobile enthusiasts of Glendale will be given their first opportunity to view the famous light six Columbia auto on Thursand Friday evenings, May 25 and 26, at the showrooms of the J. C. Pollock company, 208-10 West Broadway, local distributors.

This car was shipped from the factory in Detroit and is the only one on the Pacific coast at the present time. This is the cheapest six cylinder car on the market today and has created the greatest sensation in the automobile industry for two seasons. This results first on account of the remarkably low price of $1245, delivered here and second on account of the standard units that are used in its construction.

The Columbia Motors company has been building a high class six cylinder car for the past six years with a $25,000,000 corporation back of it. This car is assured of success.

The vista through the trees—rich, rolling lands, with their dark waves of green foliage, blending harmoniously with the warmer tints and colors of a hundred different varieties of flowers and shrubs—wins the instant admiration of every lover of beauty.

THEME WILL BE 'WOMAN AND MUSIC'

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president of the Glendale Music club, anounces that the theme of the banquet and final meeting of the club to be held in the First Methodist banquet hall and auditorium Friday evening, June 2, will be "Woman and Music." Mr. L. E. Behymer, who will be one of the after dinner speakers, will talk on "Women Artists I Have Known." Mrs. Gertrude Ross, the composer, will be on the program and Miss Frances Goldwater Olga Steeb will be the artist of the auditorium program. Mrs. Colin Cable, whose telephone number is Glendale 442-W., is chairman of banquet tickets and reservations should be made with her by all who desire to attend, without delay.

"I want to buy a make-up box," said a young married man.

"A make-up box?" the confectioner echoed. "We don't keep theatrical supplies."

"I mean a box of chocolates to take home to my wife," said the young man. "I promised to be home three hours ago."

It is a notable day in the life of any young man when he passes up a good housekeeper in order to marry a good shopper.

Truths in Epigram

The Constitution devotes the national domain to union, to justice, to defense, to welfare and to liberty. But there is a higher law than the Constitution.—Seward (1801-1872).

There is a time for some things, and a time for all things; time for great things, and a time for small things.—Cervantes (1547-1616).

WHEN THE PLANET IS ROUND

A writer has been telling, again, that when this net has become round, there will be necessity for ging canals as is done in Mars. Otherwise the tinents will be submerged and quite unendurable places of habitation. Herein are points of inter-

The first is in the fact that the planet is as un-ly to become round as to become square. The ond is that there may be Martians, and there may . They may dig canals, or they may chew gum, over the propositions there rests an equal un-tainty.

Were this earth to become round it would be about nile under water throughout its entire surface. To ate canals sufficient to keep this water from in-dating the corn patch would be a matter of ex-me difficulty. It would be an engineering feat ally without precedent. A far simpler course uld be for the race to reverse the evolutionary pro-s, go back to the status of gills, and play with the er fishes.

The chance of the globe really to be a globe was en it was molten. Then, except for internal dis-lers, and the shooting up of mountains from its thing bowels, the natural formation would have en a ball, in the manner that a drop of lead ches the foot of the shot-tower as a perfect sphere. e chance was overlooked, and now it is too late. if the writer under consideration has alarmed the id, they are privileged to realize that they have en scared about nothing.

THE "INFERIOR" RACES

A traveler returned from the Orient tells of having n a beautiful park in a Chinese city. The site for park had been donated by the Chinese upon re-est of the white residents. Over the entrance to park is this sign: "No soldiers, Chinese, or Dogs mitted." In other words, the whites had responded a gracious favor by a gross and wanton insult to people who had extended the favor.

In the insulting legend over the park gate is the pression of white opinion concerning the Oriental. t in this instance the Oriental had proved himself gentility and decency, far the superior. The Ori-al believes himself better than the white. This ling is instinctive, but a native impulse towards urtesy curbs an open exhibition of it. The white ds a similar curb.

Suppose that in an American city the Chinese had ed that a park be set aside for them, and that r the gate they placed a sign "No Soldiers, Amer-ns or Dogs Admitted." how long would the sign main? No longer than observed by a policeman. longer than spied by the first strolling American odlum. Yet in a Chinese city a sign of this char-ter remains undisturbed, and the complacent ites guilty of a boorish affront do not seem to be are either that they have committed an outrage, that so doing, they tread on dangerous ground.

Meanwhile in various but vast areas of the world re is seen an ominous cloud, or as discerning iters have termed it "The Rising Tide of Color." the white race has the brains to warrant its per-nency it will take heed. There were colored races t rejoiced in the world war, for they saw the whites a frenzied effort at suicide. They rejoice still n they see that these same races seethe with red towards each other, that in certain contingen-s they are ready again to fly at throats, white inst white, clearing the way for the rising tide of or. And all the time the whites rest securely in belief that they are superior, that nothing can m them.

It is time for the white man to cease his arrogant ertions of superiority, and seek to beat back the g tide. His own civilization is beset and he does seem to know it.

ONE WEEK END

The dead from traffic accidents in or near Los An-es for the week-end were six, with two so badly ured as to be expected to add to the list of fatali-s. There was nothing unusual about the accidents. ople are quite accustomed to read of precisely sim-tragedies. The regret concerning them is quite eral. There has been much talk of reform, but y little reform. The trouble is that so many au-nobilists do not obey the laws of the books, nor unwritten laws of courtesy. Therefore the most eful driver cannot be assured of his own safety. does not know at what instant some wild-eyed joy-er will crash into his machine.

One of the Sunday accidents was of the nature that be prevented only by abolition of the grade ssing. A man out with wife and child drove in nt of a fast train. There is no excuse for driving front of a fast train. In the numerous cases in ich this has been done, sometimes to the causing many deaths, no sort of excuse has appeared. The ver merely tried to beat the train, and failed. As rule there has been no occasion for haste. The s of a few seconds in waiting would have meant thing. In several of these dreadful affairs, the ed machine had to go around others that had ar-ed at the crossing first, and were being held there give the train right-of-way.

But hopeless of check as may be the accident that in it a strong element of suicide, a sterner appli-ion of the law doubtless would lessen the frequency the others. Were the violator of the law sent to , deprived of license to drive, and held strictly ponsible for all damage caused by his folly, he ht reform, and be also a deterrent example.

BUNDLE DAY

This is "Bundle day." Does it have any significance to you? Then scan the situation briefly, remembering that old clothes are now the most useful currency in Armenia. The entire population of Armenia is in tags and tatters, or is unclothed. The only exceptions are those who have been clad from contributions sent from this country, and a comparatively few, even more fortunate, who have had the benefit of homespun cloth and wool socks produced by orphans and refugees by the Near East industrial relief plan.

There is scarcely an American household in which there is not unused clothing. It fills space in closets, or is packed away in trunks. It represents garments belonging to suits partly wornout. For example, it is frequent for the trousers of a suit to become unfit while the coat and vest are whole, but the upper garments are discarded with the trousers. Children outgrow garments that still are in good condition. Sometimes death invades the home and then there is an entire wardrobe that might better be bundled off to Armenia than packed away to be destroyed by moths, or to be of no service.

It does not seem necessary to present here a picture of the distress in Armenia, a land most sorely stricken by war. Thousands of boys and girls there were left without parents, and without a remnant of property. They became waifs on the face of the earth. They died on the highways and in the barren fields of cold and starvation. The appeal on behalf of survivors has been made. The nations know the poignancy, the bitterness and the justice of that appeal, for these little ones are of a race that was promised protection, and received no protection, being left for the Turk to prey upon. The honor of the nations is involved. The memory of the shame may not be effaced, but some measure of recompense may be made by quick and generous response.

This editorial should have been published sooner. Such had been the intent, thwarted by circumstances. And yet it is not too late. Today is "Bundle day," but the spirit of generosity is not to die with the setting of the sun. The bundle that comes along tomorrow will be acceptable. Donations will be gratefully received, whatever their character and amount. The individual who has no clothes to spare might have a bill of some denomination for which there could be no call more pressing than the one that comes from Armenia.

Headquarters of Near East relief are at Wright & Callender building, Los Angeles. The telephones are 66654 and 14451. No trouble to answer calls.

A Los Angeles youth was killed by a policeman recently while trying to steal a machine, apparently for no worse purpose than to take a joyride. The incident was deplorable, but with no one to blame but the victim. A policeman observing the theft of an automobile has to judge by appearance, not being a mind reader.

---

There are various commentators who seem to think that ex-President Wilson has no right to be concerned in politics. Every other President who survived his term has been interested in politics. Some were interested to the extent of seeking re-election, and one of them succeeded in this. There has been no showing yet of reason why Mr. Wilson should regard himself as an exception. An ex-President is a citizen still.

PAINTED WINDOWS

By. DR. FRANK CRANE

A new book by the author who styles himself "A Gentleman with a Duster" is a considerable event. His latest book is called "Painted Windows."

It is a collection of twelve sketches of people prominent in church life in England.

The author uses this material as a text for his argument that religion should be freed from the cramping influence of theological dogma and church authority.

The general purpose of the book may be well stated in the quotation from Lowell, which he gives on the title page: "It was simply a struggle for fresh air, in which, if windows could not be opened, there was danger that panes would be broken, though painted with images of saints and martyrs. Light, colored by these reverend effigies, was none the more respirable for being picturesque."

I suspect the book was written by a preacher, for I seem to feel the background of a life devoted to the consideration of moral issues. The author knows too much about the details of religious controversy not to have had experience.

The general effect of the book is good, for it emphasizes the necessity of greater faith in the truth, a faith in which ecclesiastical organizations are curiously deficient, although they are supposed to make a specialty of faith.

The fundamental difficulty with all churches and all religious organizations, Jew or Gentile, heathen or Christian, is the difficulty of growing. Whatever is alive must grow, and whatever grows must change.

Most people are under the illusion that there is no safety except in fixity. They have a childish desire to get hold of something that never alters. They forget that the only things that never change are dead things.

Life is fluid. The experience of the soul is a river, not a rock, and the beauty of this is that rivers outlast rocks.

Whatever is alive and growing perpetually renews itself. Whatever is dead and static crumbles away and finally disappears.

The Tiber is more eternal than the seven Hills of Rome.

Growth, however, is not change alone, but it must be a sort of change that preserves its connection with past life. A tree is not the same tree every morning, for it is always putting out new leaves and bearing blossom and fruit. Yet it is, after all, the same old tree.

It is this difficulty that confronts every religious organization; that is, the difficulty of preserving the continuity of tradition and at the same time of adapting itself to the new needs of expanding life.

The Gentleman with a Duster has not entirely untied himself from entanglement with tradition, but although his feet are hobbled his arms are free and he makes interesting gestures.

THE LISTENING POST

The Philosopher had a skull and a briary and thorn stem.
Held them in his hand.
And pondered above them.

Each grim, repulsive, ugly.
Eyeless sockets and fleshless lips from which teeth disclosed in a ghastly grin.
As though mocking at life.
Temples denuded of soft flesh and velvet skin.
Cheeks that once were velvet and touched with delicate color now bony and harsh.

And the briary and thorny stem harsh, rudely ugly, bare.
That once had borne roses of delicate shade and color.
Fragrant and odorous.
But the petals had fallen and the leaves had gone.

Nothing left but a harsh reminder of the evanescence of beauty.
For there had been builded once beauty upon the skulll and the stem.
But beauty did not abide.

And the Philosopher said:
"Time is the great solvent. All things but one succumb."
And he gazed upon a tomb.
That held the mortal remains of a King.
Whose sceptre was fallen and whose hands lay fleshless and crumbling to dust.

The voice that once had called a nation to war was still.
The eye that flashed with pride of power was lustreless and cold.
The spirit that throbbed to martial music and the joys of conquest was departed.
And the tomb held only dust and ash.

"Beauty does not abide," said the Philosopher. "And Power and Pomp yield to Time."
And he held again in his hand a rotting bag that had held jewels.
And that had been taken from an ancient burial place.

The dead had been the owner of the jewels.
But the hand of the dead was powerless to prevent their taking away.
The eye of the dead could no longer behold them.
And the cupidity and greed of the dead could no longer be tempted by them.

And the Philosopher muttered:
"No—wealth does not abide. Time dissolves it in the acid bath of the years."
And the Philosopher mused.
"What survives of Beauty and of Power and of Wealth?"

And Beauty and Power and Wealth alone are skulls and thorny stems and gems upon fleshless brows and sceptres in dead hands.
For Time is the solvent of all things.
Beauty and Wealth and Power pass before Time and decay and wither and die.

Only Truth abides.
And the truth of Beauty is Love.
And the Truth of Power is Justice.
And the truth of Wealth is Service.

SONGS OF THE POETS

"When You Are Old"—William Butler Yeats (1865——)

When you are old and gray and full of sleep,
And nodding by the fire, take down this book,
And slowly read and dream of the soft look
Your eyes had once, and of their shadows deep.

How many loved your moments of glad grace,
And loved your beauty with love false or true;
But one man loved the pilgrim soul in you,
And loved the sorrows of your changing face.

And bending down beside the glowing bars
Murmur, a little sadly, how love fled.
And paced upon the mountains overhead
And hid his face amid a crowd of stars.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

ONE SPEECH REVISED
[Ohio State Journal]

Since that happened to Harry New over in Indiana we have revised the set speech we had prepared for our coming swing around the circle, eliminating all references to the glorious constructive record of our great republican congress and inserting in their place a few impassioned general remarks about the Old Flag, which seem safer.

CONCLUSIONS UPSET
[Louisville Courier-Journal]

While learned investigators produce figures showing the minimum on which a family can be supported nowadays, how do you explain the case of the farm hand who works for $9 a week and has a family and a flivver?

FORDNEY AS A LIABILITY
[Worcester Telegram]

"In 1920 I made this statement," Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee told the house, "that the then President was going to change his boarding house on the 4th day of March, and he did." Mr. Fordney continued: "I said we would say to him what I have heard sung at the close of a school I attended down in the backwoods:

Goodby scholars, goodby school,
Goodby teacher, you darned old fool."

Mr. Fordney thus entertained the house in the debate over the loan to Liberia. Democratic defenders of Mr. Wilson, the "schoolmaster," overdid themselves, as usual, in counter-attacking against Mr. Fordney.

But Mr. Fordney showed himself up in his boasting of his prophecies and in his schooltime jingle. He is a liability of the Harding administration, and until he is recognized as such there will not be great improvement in the congressional handling of the bonus, the tariff and other questions fully as important as the election of 1920.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

"We must paint life as it is." This is the cry of the realists. "How can we depict striving and happiness and purity of life when all about us we see failure and tragedy and filth?"

All the more pity for the realists. They probably couldn't. If one has a one-sided vision, the impressions on the retina of the mind must of necessity be one-sided also. But to claim that failure and tragedy and filth are all that life holds, there's the pity. The only fruit of life is not degeneracy and unhappiness. There are still happy endings to its romance. There are even some who at the present day marry "and live happy ever after." Yes, they do!

It's a mistake to pander to the love of the abnormal and to sex-sloppiness. There are those of us yet who have faith to believe, because we can see evidence all about us, that every Main street has its heroes and heroines; not flaunting their bravery to the public, because that is not the way of bravery, but none the less there in the flesh.

There are wives who patiently accept the "worse" that their marriage vows brought them; there are husbands who hide the terrible crash of their ideals of happy homes with the utmost loyalty; there are mothers and fathers who smile when their hearts are eaten out with anxiety and disappointment; there are children who are living sacrifices to their old parents; there are friendships that exist through misunderstandings and neglect: there are still kindly deeds, unselfish service, and purity kept against all odds to make life worth living, and our fellow beings well worth appreciating.

We grow by what we feed on. Shall we absorb with avidity life's filth and sordid deeds, of which we can find plenty, of course, if we desire? Or is there more hope for us if we turn to the good, instead, only as we can lighten the old world's burden of wrong? Which?

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

"Education," said Vice President Coolidge the other day, addressing a sectarian gathering, "is to teach men to comprehend the meaning of civilization."

HENRY JAMES

This has a wise sound. It would be difficult to prove, however, for there are many definitions of education. The tendency of each small group is to believe that its own doctrines represent all that is finest in civilization, and that education that does not tend to promote these doctrines is pernicious.

A certain trend of thought is noticeable as tending to stifle all other thought. Voliva insists that the earth is flat, and he regards the teaching of this belief as an educational work.

There are men and women, too, who believe in the liberty of forcing their dogmas upon other people, the latter being already committed to dogmas that are to their own liking, and maintained by their own intellectual processes and moral instincts. As the first seek to subjugate the opinions of others, the idea that these others also have notions concerning freedom, does not occur to them. At least, it does not occur to them as anything important enough to consider.

Telling free-born Americans just how they must conduct themselves in matters that really are the concern of the individual alone, is a favored activity; favored only by those who indulge in it.

Ex-Senator J. Hamilton Lewis has returned from Europe with the statement that all nations over there despise the United States.

Perhaps he is in error. Let such be the hope anyhow. It may be that he got his impression from the fact that his pink whiskers failed to make a hit.

Senator Watson of Georgia threatened to knock down Senator Phipps of Colorado.

Watson physically is a whiffet. Any fellow senator who would consent to be knocked down by him could clear himself of disgrace in carrying senatorial courtesy so far, only by producing a certificate of prolonged and most debilitating illness.

One knowing that he was about to encounter Watson in battle would be perfectly justifiable in arming himself with a fly swatter.

In a supposed case of suicide in New York, the finding was that death had not been intentional, nor caused by a deadly drug, but was due to moonshine whisky.

A little light on what moonshine whisky is, if not a deadly drug, would be appreciated.

There are indications at this writing that Burch will have a third trial. His alleged confederate awaits her second trial.

Trials cost the public a lot of money. If they accomplish anything, the expenditure is not grudged. When they accomplish nothing, and there is remote prospect that even a series of them could accomplish anything, the public gets tired of paying, and tired of the continuous performance.

It would not be proper to venture an opinion as to the guilt of these prisoners. It is fair to say that the trials to which they have been subjected probably have not altered opinion concerning them. But that a jury could be induced to bring in a verdict one way or the other, seems hopeless.

By jumping to the wrong side of a street car, so as to have to cling outside, a man in Los Angeles nearly succeeded in killing a crossing policeman by knocking him under the car.

The policeman went to the hospital. Nothing is said as to where the chump who bumped him went, but when the patient comes out, he should have the privilege of a personal interview, after which the party of the other part ought to be due for a hospital experience.

Meanwhile such energy as Russia commands is being devoted to manufacture of war material, some of which, it is suspected, finds its way to Germany.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

This morning I received a coldly sarcastic letter from a friend. At least, he used to be a friend. Now he isn't. Yet I was right and he was wrong.

"I enclose a check for the $50 you loaned me," he said, except that he said it with a saw-edge and a chill. "Please return the I O U you hold."

We had been out on a party. You know—theater tickets, dinners, taxis—and he ran out of money. He wanted to borrow fifty, and because he is a friend and also because he is as good as wheat in the bin, I gave it to him. But I asked that he give me an I O U.

"Do you think I'll forget?" he asked angrily.

No. I didn't think he would forget. But that very week I had been engaged in a controversy with Uncle Sam his income tax department. Some years ago I met a dear friend engulfed in the worst sort of hard luck. If I could not lend him money—for there was no one else to lend it—the chances are that he would have died. No need to go into the circumstances. I loaned him the money, and he would have paid me back, except that the war came on. He died fighting valiantly at the head of his men.

He left no estate. I made no effort to recover the money loaned, for I knew it to be useless. But if I had had an I O U I might have been given credit for a bad debt by Uncle, and thereby had a small sum lopped off my tax at a time when even the smallest sums were useful, thanks to business conditions in general. I didn't even have a letter. He had written me, of course, but I had not preserved his letters. I had not worried about the loss of the money. I had never regretted lending it. But being entirely human, I made up my mind to guard against future losses on my income tax.

"If you were to die unexpectedly," I said to my $50 borrower, "your estate could pay the $50 and not miss it. But I could not make a claim unless I had something to show."

Maybe I was wrong. Maybe social debts of that sort should go into a different category. Maybe the $50 I loan for taxicabs is a different sort of fifty from the $50 I loan on good security to the man who shingles my barn. But I cannot see it.

Anyhow, friends who are so ticklish as all that are not worth bothering about.

CREDIT MEN PICNIC COMMITTEE MEETS

Labor Day Is Proposed for the Big Outing of Merchants

An informal meeting of the picnic committee of the Credit Men's association was held Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the chamber of commerce. On account of there being only a few members of the committee present, no particular business was transacted. A full discussion of tentative plans for the big picnic which it is contemplated will be held on Labor day at some place near Glendale, was had, and this event will be widely advertised to make it one of the biggest picnics the city has ever known, and if it proves to be the success it should be, it will be an annual affair.

Details are to be worked out later and announcements made at the Monday noon luncheon of the association.

Chairman William C. Page of this committee feels sure that with the co-operation of every member of the committee with all the merchants and the wholesalers who will be interested in this picnic, there is no doubt but what it will be a great advertisement and help for Glendale merchants.

It is hoped that this picnic will stimulate an interest and friendship between the merchants and the buying public of Glendale. As the day set is a holiday, a large attendance should be present.

7,000 PEOPLE ARE DUE DAILY SOON

This will mean that the delegation from Glendale will have to leave this city at 6:30 a. m. Mr. Hayward announced that tht Glendale representatives will leave from in front of the chamber of commerce promptly at 8:30 on Monday morning.

"Let us sell ourselves on Southern California and be in a position to give valuable information regarding our section of the state to eastern visitors during the real estate dealers' convention in San Francisco," was the gist of a short talk to the members by Lon J. Haddock, member of the real tstate firm of Nibley-Haddock, who has just applied for membership.

Mr. Haddock suggested that all of the real estate men present at the meeting yesterday call meetings with their sales forces and find out how much each salesman or saleswoman knows about Southern California.

Professional real estate operators, some of them men who have studied the resources of the nation and particularly of their own section of the country will be in attendance at this convention in San Francisco next Wednesday, he said, and all of these men will visit Southern California and will ask the question, "Will it continue?" in regards to the marvelous growth of the southland. In order to convince them that Glendale's growth is not of mushroom variety but will continue, it will be necessary for every real estate agent to have at his command data and figures showing on what this growth is based.

In concluding his talk, Mr. Haddock said: "Let us be walking encyclopedias of information on the resources of the southland and last but most important, let us so sell ourselves on Southern California that we can talk with the knowledge and the enthusiasm necessary to convince the visitors that Southern California is the fasteest growing section of the nation and that this growth will continue."

William A. Horn informed the board members that after the convention in San Francisco, he is going to tour the east. He was delegated to carry the greetings of the Glendale Realty Board to the realty boards in the various towns to be visited by him on his trip.

A little London boy was visiting Scotland for the first time. One afternoon he suddenly left the hotel window in great excitement as a highlander came down the road playing the bagpipes.

"Mother, mother," cried the little boy. "Come quick! There's a man outside with a dead pig that sings."

"All I want," said the lion," as he took his share, "is what is right."

SPANISH TYPE OF HOME LATEST SHERWOOD CREATION

The beautiful home shown in the above illustration represents the best and latest effort of B. W. Sherwood, one of Glendale's leading architects and designers. The exterior, being equipped with arches, grills, wrought iron work and Turkish awnings give a true Spanish aspect. The house contains seven rooms with furnace and laundry rooms in the basement. A spacious double garage is equipped with a furnished room for chauffer's quarters. The den, living room and dining room have walls done in Tiffany work of oil over canvas. A feature of the living room is the 10-foot elliptical ceiling with a polychrome indirect lighting dome.

The interior finish of these rooms is in gum with a rich walnut finish. The breakfast room has two sides with French doors, the walls being in stippled blue and ivory and glazed. Both baths have floors and wainscoating of tile, while the kitchen is equipped with a tile drainboard. Both bedrooms are finished in ivory, one having a rose wall decoration, the other being in blue.

Mr. C. Dumas, who has decorated some of the best homes in the Wilshire district in Los Angeles, did the decorating. His work in oil, both free hand and stencil, was highly complimented by everyone who has seen this beautiful home.

The completed job, from the vari-colored Granada tile roof to the terraced lawn is an example of what perfect workmanship and painstaking care in construction will attain. This place may be purchased completely furnished in the best that Barker Bros. affords. For price and particulars inquire of B. W. Sherwood, 313 South Brand.

70 Homes Are Completed, Seventeen More Under Construction

Seventy homes have been constructed in Glendale during the past year by B. W. Sherwood, architect and designer, and at this time this Glendale booster has 17 dwellings in course of construction. Among these are a 16-room flat building at 121 East Lomita for Frank Marshall, a 10-room duplex for Mrs. Anita Andrews at 131 West Magnolia.

Mr. Sherwood at this time is making a specialty of especially designed homes. He is featuring the construction of specially arranged dwellings at prices that others are charging for ordinary structures. At this time he has six specially designed homes in the course of construction. He has taken as a motto for his business "ask the owner."

Mr. Sherwood is making a specialty of the Spanish type of building and architecture, and has made this a special study.

NORTH BRAND BOOM NOW DUE

Increase of Values in Upper End of Boulevard Is Phenominal

There has been no element of gambling in buying real estate in Glendale during the past two years, as is evidenced by the big increase in values on every hand.

The increase on North Brand has been almost phenomenal. The real estate firm of Endicott & Larson sold a piece of property a short time ago for more than $30,000, and it is stated a little over a year ago the same property was purchased for around $7000. Endicott & Larson have many good buys on North Brand now, which will make big money for the purchasers.

Three small store buildings on North Brand sold a few days ago for around $40,000, and it is stated the building of the same and ground only cost the seller a little over $10,000. Property all along Brand boulevard has made great advances and the original purchasers have made big money on a small investment. North Brand is coming to the front, and conservative men like Mr. Endicott advise those desiring to make money to buy business property on North Brand.

NORTHWEST IS GROWING FAST ALONG VALLEY

Low Lot Cost Works Progress in This District

A constant observer of the tremendous growth of Glendale is forcibly struck by the advantages of purchasing lots or tracts in the northwest section of Glendale.

The low cost of lots in this section are ample guarantee of increased values that will arise through the building of homes, stores and boulevards.

The trend of growth is as much in this direction, as any other, but for increases in value, it stands by itself.

The development of industrial sites along the San Fernando road, means the building of homes for executives and employees in close proximity to their employment.

This alone is a feature that must not be overlooked, aside from the fact that the wonderful beauty of locating between rambling hills will induce many to make this a permanent home.

The proposed lighting of San Fernando road, the erection of retail stores along this road, and its value as a main artery of travel, will increase the value of all adjacent property.

The soil is adapted for wonderful gardens, lawns and trees and on what now looks like waste land will arise a magic city.

An enthusiastic booster of this section is one whose long residence in Glendale qualifies him to pass on the present advantages and future growth of this section. We refer to Roy D. King of 106 E. California avenue, who will be pleased to show any one the merits of buying for the present as an investment and for the future, as a home.

Finances Homes as Well as Builds Them in Glendale

J. F. Stanford, builder of homes, has to his credit many homes in Glendale and satisfied customers who have had him build for them.

Being a judge of values, a good builder, and being able to finance the building from the start, Mr. Stanford, it is said, has as many if not more buildings in Glendale to his credit than is usually handled by a single contractor, without being affiliated with outside concerns or the big money lenders. But Stanford has made money in Glendale, and he has put it back into real estate and it has returned to him again and again several fold more than he spent.

C. & S. CAFETERIA IS PROGRESSING

Work is progressing rapidly on the C. & S. Cafeteria on North Brand, and it will be ready for occupancy very soon. When completed this building will be one of the most attractive structures on the north side. The contractor, D. C. Stevens, is rushing the work, and is maintaining his reputation as a good contractor and pusher on this particular piece of work.

A huntsman called at the farmstead to settle for damage done by the hounds and found only the farmetr's wife at home.

"Has your good man made an examination yet?" he asked.

"That he have, sir," replied Mrs. Hodge.

Rather a cursory examination, I suspect?"

"Oh, dreadful, sir! Such langwidge I never heard—never!"

And the dame held up her hands at the bare recollection.

SPARK TRANSMISSION
Need of Transformers

For the generation of electro-magnetic waves capable of being radiated through long distances by the transmitting apparatus, a potential ranging from 15,000 to 50,000 volts is required, so that the next step is the transformation of the low voltage current delivered by the alternator of the motor-generator set to one of high potential. This is accomplished by means of a transformer which operates on the principle of electro-magnetic induction. It has been explained that when a wire is placed parallel and in close proximity to a second coil through which a current is momentarily passed, a current will be induced in the first wire. This effect is greatly increased by inserting a soft iron core in a coil which is excited and thereby inducing a much greater current in another coil placed in close proximity, than if there were no soft-iron core. If this exciting current is direct, it is necessary to provide some means of making and breaking the circuit rapidly, in order to maintain an induced current in the second coil. This in brief is really an induction coil, also known as an open core transformer, since only part of the magnetic circuit is represented by the core, the remainder of the magnetic flux having to pass through the air from one pole to another. If the number of turns of wire are the same on each coil, a galvonometer connected to the terminals of the second one will show that the induced E. M. F. is of the same value as the applied E. M. F., or voltage, of the current exciting the first coil, less the losses due to the transformation process itself. If, however, the excited coil termed the primary, consists of a comparatively small number of turns while the second coil, termed the secondary, has a great number of turns, the induced E. M. F. as shown by the galvonometer will be increased over the applied E. M. F in the proportion that the number of turns in the winding of the secondary bears to the number in the primary. The voltage will have been stepped-up to a higher potentila so that this arrangement is known as a step-up transformer. By reversing the connections, so as to make the secondary the primary of the transformer and making the primary the secondary, the applied voltage will be lowered in the same proportion and the transformer will be known as a step-down transformer. Only the step-up transformer is employed in wireless work to any great extent. By winding the secondary coil directly over the primary coil on the same core and providing a make and break device, operated magnetically, for the current entering the primary winding, we have what is known as an induction coil. The core consists of a bundle of small iron wires inserted in a glass, hard rubber or other insulating tube on which the primary, consisting of one or two layers of comparativey heavy wire, such as No. 18, 16, or 14, is wound. In series with the primary is the interupter or make and break device before mentioned, which operates on the same principal as the door bell or buzzer. An armature carried on a flat spring and having a contact of platinum soldered to the spring is placed close to one end of the core. The spring is fastened to the base of its lower end so that it can viabrate at a rapid speed; its platinum contact bears against a similar contact in the end of an adjusting screw. When the current passes, the armature is attracted by the magnetism of the core, thus breaking the circuit at these contact points; the core then immediately loses its magnetism and the spring recloses the circuit and repeats the operation, vibrating at a rapid speed.

With the Radio School and Club

The question now under heavy debate is to whether or not the radio school shall begin its summer vacation and when it shall begin. The best proposition of all is to dive into the theoretical end of every member's set and describe the action of it and also the construction and care of his especial equipment. After this has been accomplished the radio club and school will embark upon its summer vacation and when the new term begins next fall, it will be possible with the necessary code equipment and text books, which have not at the present time. Also as soon as possible, we will endeavor to make possible the code examinations of those Glendale amateurs wishing second grade amateur licenses, to take their examinations at the Daily Press radio station. The number of words required for this test is ten words per minute which means fifty letters and ten spaces or five letters and a space counts for one word. By this system you will be able to come to the Daily Press station and apply for a code examination as often as you want to until you pass it. The class for tomorrow night will be theory.

Wouldn't It Be Great—If

There weren't any static in the hot summer season?

If when you applied for a position, everyone didn't tell you that times were slack? Then if you call them up, they tell you they are so flooded with work that they cannot do anything for you for at least a week.

Press-Newton Radio Station

The broadcasting station is still progressing but the thing that has been holding us back is getting the poles erected. We have finally obtained the services of a firm who does that sort of work and they state they will put them up Monday. The firm erecting these poles is the Allen Bros., 1346 Winslow street, Los Angeles. The other equipment will not take long to install and get into operation but the aerial does take time in order to get it right. And the poles are not the only thing. After they are up, it will possibly take all of one day to put up a proper aerial and then another day to erect the proper counterpoise.

Is He Right?

The president of the radio club insisted that the fog we get in the city of Glendale positively all comes from the Los Angeles river and that we do not get any fog from the mountains. Now I want to know if he is right. If so, how do we get fog when the river is dry, as is its habit occasionally. The president of course, is Glenn Bronner, and he insists that I am all wrong when I say that the fog comes from the mountains. Now maybe so, but for the love of me I sure cannot see where all of that fog can come from the river. Will some kind authority settle the subject as this isn't in my line?

HOW TO CURE THE SPARK "PEST"

Although not generally believed, it is undoubtedly a fact that President Harding's primary reason for calling a conference of radio experts to plan restrictive legislation for amateurs, was that the government has received so many complaints of the interference caused by amateurs operating over the 200 meter wave length.

Strange to relate, very few of these complaints were made by commercial, ship or government stations. The great majority of them having been made by amateur operators.

With the great number of active and enthusiastic radio clubs that are now in existence, it is suggested that these clubs police the ether themselves.

In many cases the amateur causing the interference does so unconsciously and should he be advised of his faults, he would probably correct them. Of course, there are those who might be termed "ether hogs" and are of the same family as "road hogs," but they are comparatively few.

It is suggested that clubs picking up any interference of this kind write as follows, which will be a great help in silencing those stations that will ultimately bring down the wrath of the government on all amateur stations:

..... 192..

Radio .....

Your signals were heard on.... Meters..... 192... ..... a. m. or p.m. Audibly.....

Do you realize that the above signals are driving a nail in the "coffin" for amateur radio by not working on the government allowance of 200 meters?

Would you like to have your set abolished? No, of course not. Then it is up to you to get your set tuned up to the proper 200-meter wave-length.

There are a number of "radio clubs" in your vicinity that are willing to help you to tune up. Get in touch with some of them and let's help save amateur radio from the grave.

Yours for Amateur Radio,
Radio.....

One trick is met by another.

GUN FIRES 1000 SHOTS A MINUTE SO KICKLESS IT CAN BE HELD AGAINST NOSE

For the benefit of the police of New York city and surrounding towns, a new sub-machine gun capable of firing 1000 shots a minute was tested recently at Tenafly, N. J. It is the invention of General John T. Thompson, who was director of arsenals for the war department during the world war. It can shoot both ball and birdshot cartridges. In police work the gun, which weighs about 9½ pounds, about half the weight of the next lightest automatic gun, a charge of birdshot stops a man without seriously injuring him and makes an arrest possible.

FORGET THE FLASH OF LIGHTNING

By THOMAS J. McELROY, Jr.

Radio, today, is getting more free publicity than was ever given to any other industry or art. Newspapers and magazines, all over the country, have installed radio sections of columns which have taken the utmost attention of their readers. Editorially or otherwise, radio is being written or talked about to such an extent that even the world war now seems to be but a flash in the pan.

However, although well-known writers are doing a wonderful amount of good towards educating the public in the art of radio, there is still one thing that many have overlooked—signifying radio by a flash of lightning.

Wherever we look, whether a magazine advertisement, a newspaper heading—as a matter of fact, wherever radio is pictured, we see the same old detrimental flash of lightning.

Those of us who were acquainted with wireless before the days of broadcasting, know very well that radio does not travel through the ether as does a lightning flash. But it seems that the new men in the field, both advertisers and editors, are under the false impression that the flash so often pictured has a tendency to put life into the article or "ad" about radio. This is entirely and woefully the wrong view to take. On the contrary, instead of boosting radio, it does unestimated harm to the industry so far as the layman is concerned. The first thought of a new owner of a radio receiving set is safety to himself and home. He wonders if this brand new household contrivance will give him an electric shock—whether it will shoot forth a flash in the middle of the night and do harm to himself and home. If we are to take that main and important fear from his mind, we surely cannot do so by constantly putting before his eyes such a danger signal as a lightning flash.

The word "radio" at this time is, in itself, sufficient indication of what it implies. We don't need to put the old death sign on a flash alongside it. All of us are trying, in our respective way, to do all the good possible for radio and in no other way can we do it until we first cease to do it harm.. Let us, then, if we desire to tie up art work with the running head of our "ad"—let us use other means of attracting attention of the reader. There are innumerable other ways of using this necessary art work so it will build up radio instead of knocking it down. The only way we can accomplish it is by country-wide cooperation. Let's start now.

Cockroach Claimed Pioneer Radio Bug

Talk about Radio bugs, here is a new species: "Lightning bugs are living Radio outfits," says Hamilton Bailey, U. S. Navy Radio operator. Each bug has its own aerial—the feelers—and its miniature audion bulbs of low Radio frequency and the parent bugs have Radio broadcasting apparatus. The cockroach communicates by Radio. He has a wave length of one-half inch with low frequency. These miniature living Radio outfits are being investigated to determine their sending and receiving ability.

Loud Speakers are Made of Sea Shells

A horn-shaped sea shell makes the ideal amplifier or "loud speaker" for the Radiaphone. The shells issue clearer tones and eliminate the metalic sound. The shells were used on private receivers owned by Vinton L. Cooley and Louis Scotford. Large shells were procured and they were cut off at the stem and these were attached to the receivers of the machines.

They served excellently as amplifiers and the inventors were astonished at the clearness of the reception.

A very mean old lady once had her heart touched. A tramp came to her door and knocked. He was a good actor, and when she came to the door behold he was eating the grass on the lawn. "Oh, my poor, poor man," she said, wringing her hands, "go next door. Their grass is much longer than mine."

"Here boy," exclaimed the excited little man as he rushed up to a bell-boy in a big hotel. "Run up to my room and see if my umbrella is there. Hurry now, because I've just got five minutes to catch a train."

Three minutes later the boy came tripping down the stairs.

"Yes, sir," he said. "It's there all right."

It's clever to utilize the present for getting a strangle hold on the future.

ONOLULU REFORM BATHING CUSTOMS

ines Man Ten Cents for Parading Street in Suit

HONOLULU, May 24.—It costs cents in a court fine to walk e streets of Honolulu in a bath- suit.

This is the sum settled upon by dge J. B. Lightfoot as a fine for olators of the Desha bathing it law, which forbids bathers ing from their homes to the ach without wearing a "suitable ter garment."

Judge Lightfoot declared the w absurd, and the city prosecu- r agreed with him. But as the w must be upheld, a fine of 10 nts, with court costs remitted, as decided upon for the men with ndsome figures and the women th shapely forms, who parade the beach in one-piece suits, ns overcoats, bathrobe, kimona, c.

"It looks far worse to see a man moving his trousers in the pres- nce of Sunday crowds at the ach than it does to see him alk a few blocks in his bathing it," declared the judge.

The drama was a thrilling one, t a talkative young man had en it before. In an audible voice e announced what was coming ext, and described how funny it ould be when it did come. He d a pretty girl with him, and e was trying to amuse her.

At length he said: "Did you er try listening to a play with ur eyes shut? You've no idea w queer it seems."

A middle-aged man sat just in ont. He twisted himself in his at and glared.

"Young man," he said, "did you er try listening to a play with ur mouth shut?"

IT WAS LUCKY FRISK SQUIRREL HAD FRIENDS

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

Frisk Squirrel didn't mean to steal that spotty feather from Bobby Robin—honest, he didn't. When he found that he had it he was 'most as s'prised as Bobby was when Frisk twitched it out of him. You know how Frisk's lively little paws are always doing things he never told them to——

But this time he told them to carry him back to where Tad Coon still snoozed, and carry him quick! For Bobby Robin was swooping back at him, screeching at top top squawk: "You thieving young redskin! I'll teach you to go bird hunting, I will. I'll peck your wicked little eyes, I will. And your mother can take the blame. It's her fault. The way she brings up her children is the scandal of both Ponds. (Meaning Chip's and Mr. Muskrat's.) You squirrels are always into something; if it isn't a nest it's——"

"Aaourgh-ough!" said Tad Coon between a yarn and a snarl. For the racket had waked him. And he felt just as peevish as grown-ups always do. But he was peevish at Bobby, not at Frisk, who was softly burrowing under his elbow. Frisk hadn't begun sassing back—not because he didn't want to, but because the words were scared right out of him.

"Yah!" Tad blinged his eyes open. "You birds! You're always squalling about something—meaning no offense to you, Green-Crest," he hastened to add as the handsome duck came a-flying to see what his bad fluff-tail was into this time.

"And always picking on some one," added Daddy Green-Crest, pointing his crest severely at the angry bird.

"He picked on me first!" Bobby shrieked. "He picked a feather right out of my tail."

"I—I didn't not," Frisk found his voice at last, and a very indignant one. "I wath des lookin' how pwitty it wath, an'—an' it comed." He sniffed, to show how badly hurt his feelings were.

"What's one feather," snorted Tad. "You're always flirting them under our noses, you vain things. I should think you'd be pleased with the little fellow for appreciating them."

"As for hunting you," Green-Crest chipped in, "it's absurd. You'd make two of him. But this eye pecking is a serious matter. If you mean to peck any one, try me. Righ here and now!"

"No, no," Bobby changed his chirp. "I was hasty. I was hasty. I really didn't mean it. He just startled me, that's all.

So Frisk was all safe once more

For Bobby Robin Was Swooping Back at Him.

—and he had his feather. You know what he meant to do with it.

A Year Ago Today

(From Glendale Daily Press, May 25, 1921)

At the regular meeting of the Tuesday afternoon club held yesterday afternoon in Masonic temple the officers of the club were elected for the coming year. Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson was elected president and Mrs. A. M. Williams, first vice-president.

Great preparations are being made for the Memorial Day exercises to be held in Glendale. Many patriotic and civic societies have been invited to take part. Services at Forest Lawn Memorial Park will be inspiring and on an elaborate scale.

The music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club will meet tomorrow afternoon at the high school.

The Good Templars will hold their annual convention at Odd Fellow hall on Saturday.

The miser's creed contains a large saving clause.

STUDENTS WIN PEN CERTIFICATES

One hundred certificates in penmanship have been issued by the Zanerian Art College of Columbus, Ohio, to pupils of the commercial department of Glendale high, about 75 per cent of the penmanship enrollment receiving them. This is a very high average of which Mr. Fullen is exceedingly proud.

SNAKE BITES KILL MANY IN INDIA

DES MOINES, IOWA, May 24.—(United Press).—A total of 3,339 people slain by wild animals and 20,043 killed by snake bite is reported by Dr. Jessica R. Carlson, a Presbyterian medical missionary, as the 1921 census of mortality from wild animals in India. Dr. Carleton made her report public today through the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions.

"It is not malaria and kindred diseases alone," says Dr. Carleton, from her station at Ambala, Punjab, India, "which carry off India's population. Life in India is in constant danger from beasts and serpents. The number of people killed by tigers the past year was 1,507; by leopards, 550; by wolves, 522; by crocodiles, 204; by hyenas, 27.

"Mankind has been actively battling his ancient foes, with the result that during the year 23,255 wild animals were destroyed and 61,373 venomous snakes were killed."

WAINWRIGHT, ALBERTA,—The increase in buffalo at the park here during 1921 was 543, the herd now numbering 5,152.

"Rowland is very interesting," said the stockbroker's daughter.

"Oh! what does he talk about?" inquired her father.

"Why, he is ever so well posted in Shakespearian quotations."

"Girl," said the financier, sternly, "don't let him deceive you. There's no such stock on the market."

Two well-known financiers were discussing a banking scandal.

"The banker has now gone off for a cruise to South America, has he not?" asked the first.

"Yes, I believe so," replied the second.

"To recuperate from an attack of influenza, is it not?" queried the first.

His companion laughed grimly. "I've heard of that kind of influenza before," he said. "It comes from cold feet due to exposure."

There is no food in a mushy faith.

AN ORDINANCE FOR LICENSING AND REGULATING THE CARRYING ON OF CERTAIN PROFESSIONS, TRADES, CALLINGS AND OCCUPATIONS IN THE CITY OF GLENDALE; PRESCRIBING THE PENALTY FOR VIOLATIONS OF THIS ORDINANCE AND REPEALING ORDINANCE 274 AND ALL AMENDMENTS THEREOF AND REPEALING ALL OTHER PARTS OF ORDINANCES IN CONFLICT HEREWITH.

THE MAYOR AND COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE DO ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1. It shall be unlawful for any person whether as principal or agent, clerk or employe, either for himself or for any other person or for any body corporate, or as an officer of any corporation or otherwise, to commence or carry on any trade, calling, profession or occupation, in this ordinance specified, in the City of Glendale without first having procured a license from said City so to do or without complying with any and all regulations of such trade, calling, profession or occupation contained in this ordinance; and the carrying on of any trade, calling, profession or occupation mentioned in this ordinance without first having procured a license from said City to do so or without complying with any and all regulations of such trade, calling, profession or occupation contained in this ordinance, shall constitute a separate violation of this ordinance for each and every day that such trade, calling, profession or occupation is so carried on.

SECTION 2. The amount of any license imposed by this ordinance shall be deemed a debt to the City of Glendale and any person, firm or corporation carrying on any trade, calling, profession or occupation mentioned in this ordinance without having a license from said City so to do shall be liable to an action in the name of said City in any court of competent jurisdiction for the amount of license by this ordinance imposed on such trade, calling, profession or occupation.

SECTION 3. It shall be the duty of the City Clerk to issue a license under this ordinance for every person, firm or corporation liable to pay a license hereunder and to state in each license the amount thereof, the period of time covered thereby, the name of the person, firm or corporation to whom issued, the trade, calling, profession or occupation licensed and the location or place of business where such trade, calling, profession or occupation is to be carried on. The City Clerk shall deliver all such licenses to the City Controller and the said City Controller shall sign and deliver same to the City Clerk for collection.

SECTION 4. No license granted or issued under any provisions of this ordinance shall be in any manner transferred or assigned, or authorize any person, firm or corporation other than is therein mentioned or named to carry on any trade, calling, profession or occupation.

SECTION 5. The City Clerk shall make a charge of fifty cents for each duplicate license issued to replace any license issued under the provisions of this ordinance, which has been lost or destroyed. In no case shall any mistake made by the City Clerk in stating the amount of a license prevent or prejudice the collection by the City of the amount which shall be actually due from any one carrying on a trade, calling, profession or occupation subject to a license under this ordinance.

SECTION 6. All licenses shall be paid in advance in the lawful money of the United States, at the office or the City Clerk.

Provided, however, that the licenses required to be paid by the provisions of this ordinance shall be due and payable from and after the first day of July, 1922. A separate license must be obtained for each branch establishment or separate place of business in which the trade, calling, profession or occupation is carried on, and each license shall authorize the party obtaining it to carry on, pursue or conduct only that trade, calling, profession or occupation described in such license, and only at the location or place of business which is indicated thereby.

The daily licenses in this ordinance provided shall be due and payable to the City each day in advance.

The annual licenses in this ordinance provided shall be due and payable to the City at the times specified herein respectively, or when not so specified on the first day of July of each year, but the first annual license issued to any person, as herein provided, shall be issued for the unexpired period of such year, except as herein otherwise in this ordinance specifically provided.

No greater or less amount of money shall be charged or received for any license than is provided in this ordinance and no license shall be sold or issued for any period of time other than is provided in this ordinance.

The Once Over

DUMM AND DUMMER ON THAT RUSSIAN REQUEST FOR A BILLION

By H. I. PHILLIPS

"Dummer," said Senator Dumm, putting down his newspaper and adjusting his glasses, "let me have a billion dollars, will you, old thing?"

"How much?" asked Dummer.

"One billion," replied Senator Dumm.

"How will you have it?" asked Dummer. "In bills or silver?"

"In bills * * * and mosty fives and tens, if you don't mind," replied Dumm.

"Now that we know we're both crazy, what's the big idea?" demanded Dummer "Why this loose talk of a billion dollars?"

"I just wanted to feel like a Russian delegate to Genoa, that's all," explained Senator Dumm.

"Whaddya mean?" asked Dummer

"Don't you read the papers?" demanded Dumm .

"Only for the arrival in port of rum-runners," admitted Dummer.

"Well, Russia has just asked the allies for a loan of a billion dollars," explained Dumm "With the calm demeanor of a man asking for a match, the head of the Russian commission has notified the allies that his country must have a billion or nothing, and that unless it gets it, it won't play any more."

"Will they get it?" asked Dummer.

"It'll be a good trick if they do," replied Dumm "Russia is very serious about it and insists that nothing less than a billion will be even considered"

"What's the idea?" asked Dummer. "Is Lenin planning on distributing dollar-bill sandwiches to the discontented populace

"No," explained Dumm. "It's like this: The allies need trade from Russia and Russia needs trade with the allies. The Russians are broke. What they want to do is to have the allies sell them goods and lend them the money to pay the bills."

"A proposition like that shows that Lenin and Trotzky picked up a good business training when they were in the ladies garment business on the New York east side years ago," commented Drummer.

"Not so many years ago they would have collapsed at the mention of a billion dollars," argued Dumm. "For $89 worth of dress goods Lenin or Trotzky would have said yes to any proposition, and without any Genoa conference either."

"Its a lot of money," mused Dummer wistfully.

"What's a lot of money; the billion or the $89?" demanded Dumm.

"Either!" replied Dummer. "But speaking of a billion, what does Russia intend to do with so much mazuma at one time?"

"The first thing she's got to do is to get new uniforms and boots for her Russian dancers," replied Dumm.

"Russian dancers?" questioned Dummer.

"Sure!" insisted Dumm. "They are the principal exports of Russia. She sends a lot of them to America, and you may have noticed how shabby their costumes have been the past few seasons."

"Now that you speak of it, I do," agreed Dummer. "I saw a troup of 'em in vaudeville last week and their boots were a disgrace to the act."

"Well, a good part of the billion will have to be spent that way," resumed Dumm. "A Russian dancer with bum boots and faded suit is a flop no matter how high he can jump or how many times he can spin around on one foot."

"But you're speaking of the male Russian dancers," said Dummer with a sudden gleam in his eyes. "Now you certainly can't claim any part of a billion is needed to clothe the lady Russian dancers."

"With the high cost of beads it costs a lot to clothe a lady dancer these days," insisted Dumm.

"Who's the head of the Russian delegation, the bird who is trying to make this little touch for a billion?" asked Dummer.

"It slips me for the moment," said Dumm. "Let me think * ** "

"Tch—tch—tch—thicher — chooo-o!" came violently from Dummer.

"That's it," said Dumm.

"What's it?" asked Dummer.

"What you just said."

"I didn't say anything," insisted Dummer, "I just sneezed!"

"Well, you sneezed the name of the Russian delegate, Tchitcherin. In fact, you have to sneeze to pronounce it."

Fashions for Americans

Every one of the vests shown in the sketch would be smart. They are all a little more than waist length in front, and with waist length back sections and side straps to hold them to the figure. The up-per vest, as shown, was made of a fine white broadcloth and studded with steel beads. The collarless one was of black cloth or duvetyn, with appliqued motifs in contrasting color, and the lower vest was of white satin stitched in henna and with collar and band at the bottom of henna faille silk quilted in white.

Here Are Three Vestees to Brighten Up Last Year's Suit.

Naturally the color scheme of each may be changed to suit the taste of the individual woman, and to harmonize with the color of the suit with which it is to be worn.

Heavy linen is used to fashion some very smart tailored vests and matching cuffs, with checked gingham often used as the trimming, applied in the form of a binding for all the edges. Or a line embroidery done in heavy silk or cotton thread may be used to finish a tailored vest and cuff set.

Simple little Puritan collar and cuff sets, made of organdy or other sheer fabric, and either entirely plain or lace trimmed, are still very much featured.

In the line-up of spring accessories, gloves are, of course, of great importance. It is interesting to note that many cuff styles are being shown, both in kid and silk, the latter usually combining two colors.

As to shoes, the strap styles will continue to be good, with a strong leaning to sensible shapes and practical comfortable heels.

He was lost in the wilds of Connemara, and, after being bogged several times, arived outside a cabin at 2 a. m., wet and shivering. He rapped several times at the door, and at last a shutter wa raised and a head protruded. "What is all the noise about?" asked the owner of the protruding head.

"I'm lost," explained the wanderer, "and want to stay here all night."

"Well, why d'ye wake me up?" retorted Pat, as he prepared to bang the wondow. "Ye can stay a month if ye loike!"

To save a shift on hills

Many an automobile fails to deliver the power and speed of which it is capable, fails in acceleration and on the hills, because of poor lubrication.

The purpose of lubrication is to reduce friction. In this connection it must be remembered that oils have internal or molecular friction. The heavier the oil the more this internal friction, which has to be overcome by and uses up power.

The ideal oil for the automobile is the thinnest oil which will keep the bearing surfaces separated, and at the same time offer in itself the least frictional resistance to the engine power going to the rear or driving wheels.

Such an oil—if it has "oiliness," stability and purity,—will give perfect lubrication, and permit the development of the maximum power, speed and gasoline mileage of the car.

Zerolene meets these conditions perfectly.

Oiliness—Stability—Purity

Zerolene has great "oiliness," which causes it to cling to bearing surfaces while offering in itself a minimum of frictional resistance to the engine power.

It has great stability, which causes it to resist engine heat and to form a minimum of carbon of a soft, flaky nature which goes out with the exhaust.

And it is pure.

If you follow the Zerolene chart of Correct Lubrication, you will develop the maximum power, speed and gasoline mileage of your car.

REX, WIZARD, AT THE T. D. & L.

"Rex," who will appear at the T. D. & L. Theatre tonight in a special performance, claims to be a Hindu seer and crystal gazer, one of the leading exponents of that little known art which has been practiced since time immemorial by the Yegis, wise men, soothsayers and astrologers of the far east. "Rex" invites those who are skeptical as to the possibility of thought transference, to submit their questions to him. To each, provided they are sensible, he will give careful consideration and a courteous reply.

In addition to "Rex" the Thomas Meighan picture, "The Bachelor Daddy," which has taken the city by storm, will be given for the last time. Regular admission prices prevail.

JAMES W. FOLEY

MYTHOMANIA

[Ernest Dupre, famous French psychiatrist, the foremost authority on mythomania—"tendency more or less voluntary and conscious towards lying and relating fabulous experiences"—died recently.—Daily Paper.]

In boyhood when I staid from school
To roam the woods or fish the brook,
Regardless of the plan and rule
That bound me to the slate and book,
And when at night they asked me why
My shirt was wet down front and back
'Tis now I know I did not lie—
I was a mythomaniac.

The lack of real psychology
Was quite apparent in my youth,
My parents did not study me
With keen desire to get the truth.
I'm sure the strap or shingle would
Have made no progress down my back
Had they known it was in my blood
To be a mythomaniac.

How science pleasantly explains
Our derelictions and mistakes,
And should spare boys now from the pains
The briskly moving slipper makes.
If my boy tells me what was once
A fib in days that hark far back,
I know, unless I am a dunce,
He is a mythomaniac.

Boys do not fib with cold intent,
Nor should be punished when they lie,
It is the psychologic bent
Of boys and science tells us why.
So Father, stay the strap that's long,
And draw the brutal arm not back,
That boy of yours has done no wrong,
He's just a mythomaniac.

Glands and Character

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.)

If the thyroid, parathyroids and other glands of internal secretion often play a part in causing nervous and mental diseases—as now seems to be established—one would expect to find them in some degree affecting the development of character. That they not only do this but are actually the chief determinants of character, is the view maintained by certain close students of gland action.

It is, for example, the main theme of a recently issued and most vividly written book, Dr. Louis Berman's "The Glands Regulating Personality." Dr. Berman assures us:

"The internal secretions, with their influence upon brain and nervous system as well as every other part of the body corporation, have been discovered the real governors and arbiters of instincts and dispositions, emotions and reactions, characters and temperaments, good and bad. . . .

"All the different nuances of personality are expressions of a particular relationship, transitory or permanent, between the endocrines and the viscera and muscles. Conversely, behavior shows what a person actually is chemically—that is, what endocrine and vegetative factors predominate in his make-up."

In other words, if a man possesses this or that characteristic in marked degree it is because in his case this or that ductless gland is chronically overfunctioning or underfunctioning. And already, in Dr. Berman's opinion, experiment and observation permit a pretty definite charting of the glandular influences in the shaping of character.

Suppose a man is exceptionally energetic, unusually resistive to fatigue, able to get along with comparatively little sleep though working many hours a day. This would be interpreted to mean that he is blessed with an uncommonly strong and active thyroid gland. If, in addition, he is of much intellectual ability, he must be credited with an ante-pituitary gland in excellent working order.

Intellectual deficiency, on the opposite, may be taken to be a sign of a weak ante-pituitary. And mental and physical inertness, laziness, lack of initiative, mean, among other things, that the thyroid is not functioning as it should. To quote Dr. Berman:

"Thyroid deficients need plenty of refreshing sleep. In addition, they find it necessary to sleep during the day. Taciturn, inarticulate, lazy, slow, tired, are the adjectives applied to them by their friends as well as by their enemies. All because of the insufficient or inefficient supply of the thyroid's iodines to their cells."

Bravery and cowardice are similarly traced to gland effects. Here the glands chiefly involved are the adrenals, situated astride the kidneys. Let them malfunction and fear becomes dominant in the psychic constitution of their unfortunate possessor.

Hence the shy, diffident and timid, on this glandular theory, may be depicted as products of adrenal sub-activity. When, however, the adrenals are super-active we have people who, besides being conspicuously brave, are likely to be aggressive and masterful.

From all of which it would seem to follow that, by suitable dosage of gland extracts, character might be altered at will. There is evidence that to some small extent this is true. But also there is evidence, overlooked by too many exponents of endocrinology, indicating that they are unduly hopeful in their dreams of absolute character-control.

To this we shall return another day.

Listening in on Eve

BUDDY'S EDUCATION

"Why does a girl always keep a fellow waiting an hour or so before she is ready to go anywnere with him?" demanded the very young man of his popular sister. "It's fierce! When they know they're going, why aren't they ready?"

"Oh, we expect to be," his popular sister told him. "But something always happens!"

"Huh!" scoffed the very young man. "I saw you with my own eyes pick up a magazine the other night when you were all dressed for that dance and you sat and read one-half hour while Harold waited downstairs—that didn't happen. You just up and did it!"

"Oh, that was different," his sister explained kindly. "It's horrid being early at a dance, because nobody is there to see you come in, and what's the use of a brand new dress if it is going to be overlooked? Besides Harold needed disciplining. He is perfectly conceited and thinks all the girls are crazy about him, and I thought it would do him good to hang around a spell!"

"Well, suffering snakes!" said the very young man; "you've got a bland nerve! It would serve you right if some one of them walked out on you! How am I to know, then, when I sit staring at the palm and the photograph album, whether what is happening to me is good for me or whether Estelle really is having troubles getting ready? Believe me, I'm not going to——"

"Yes, you are," murmered his popular sister, "because you have no way of telling and probably it is good for you. Anyhow, what would a man think when he called to take a girl anywhere if he found her waiting in the front hall for him with her gloves all buttoned, gasping for breath for fear he was going to be late or wasn't coming? He'd turn and run a mile, chortling in his glad escape! And then sometimes we hate like sixty having to go with a certain man, and it takes longer getting ready in that case!"

"But," stammered her brother, "why do you go if you don't want to?"

"You're awfully young, aren't you?" inquired his popular sister. "If a girl is on earth she has to go to things."

"Do you suppose," he asked anxiously, "that Estelle goes out with me just for that reason? Why, if I thought——"

"Oh, I'm sure it's different in your case, Buddy," said his sister. Estelle is too young to pick and choose, and, besides, you are extra nice yourself!"

"Do you think a girl would think so?" he begged a trifle gloomily. "Last night I waited an hour and a quarter when I called to take Estelle to the movies!"

"That does look tragic," admitted his popular sister. "What did she say?"

"What did she say?" exploded the very young man. "I was getting madder and madder and had decided to be absolutely implacable when she arrived with one of those nice little hot air excuses I've heard you give forth so often——and if she didn't float in sweetly and never apologize one scrap! Just took it for granted that I would be so relieved to see her that all would be forgiven! She never even noticed how mad I was—and how can a fellow stay boiling when it isn't observed?"

"Why, Estelle is really a smart little creature!" commented his popular sister. "May be she was telephoning somebody else and trying to smooth him down. He may have wanted to come out, you know, and kept her talking!"

"It's that Foxworth Adams!" the very young man cried, excitedly. "He's always sticking around! But that makes it worse! I'm going to tell Estelle what I think of her! I'm going to give that girl a piece of my mind, see if I don't! Keeping me on the anxious seat while she amuses herself with some other man! Who does she think I am that she can make me waste time like that? I guess she isn't the only girl in the world by a long shot! Just wait till I see her again. I'll surprise her!"

"Well, may be you can get away with it if you use that tone of voice." his popular sister told him. "May be she likes caveman stuff. On the other hand, she may get mad and turn you out into the cold world and never let you see her again!"

"Er—would a girl be likely to do that?" asked the very young man, a bit nervously. "Especially if she liked the—that is—gee, I'd hate to——"

"She would," said his sister. "In fact, I've done it myself!"

"Then I guess I hadn't better," said the very young man. "Say—a fellow just can't do a thing with you girls but stand it, can he?"

"Nope," said his popular sister. "He just can't! Why, you'll be ready to graduate if you keep on like this!"

BILL WILLIAMS OF ARIZONA IS VOLCANO

He Is Sleeping Uneasily in the Western Part of State

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—Persons who have been puzzling their heads over the chill weather of the present spring, are furnished with an explanation by Dr. Milton Albert Nobles, of this city.

Doctor Nobles is an earthquake and volcano prophet. He is, besides, a prophet most of whose prophecies come true.

The recent heavy rainfall and floods in the Mississippi Valley were predicted thirty days before they occured by the doctor, who is a graduate of Syracuse University. As the result of fifty years study of winds and their temperatures, he told of unusul volcanic activity in the vicinity of the Gulf of Mexico, that should produce the floods that later occured.

The latest eruption of Vesuvius was proceeded by a statement from the doctor that such activity should be expected in that quarter of the globe. He also predicted that the time is approacning when such activities will commence over most of Europe and parts of Asia. They will bring, he said, the end of the old, outworn section of the world within a hundred years at the most. The recent earthquakes at Tokio did not surprise him in the least.

All this is preliminary to his explanation of the present spring weather and that of recent days.

"I think it means old Bill Williams," said the venerable white-haired physician cryptically, when he was asked about it.

"Bill Williams?" he was asked.

"Yes," he smiled. "Bill is an old volcano on the western border of Arizona. I've studied Bill in my travels. That old mountain has not erupted for 300 years, and no one has spotted it as a volcano. But the wind drifts of the past few weeks show me there is some volcanic activity brewing in those parts at least in Bill's vicinity, and I expect an eruption any day."

"What has that to do with the weather?" he was asked.

"Well," he replied, "when there is a center of more than usual heat it draws the air toward it in a way that is plainly noticed on the hydrographic charts. These charts show a heated area, due, no doubt to impending volcanic activity, in the region of Arizona. This has in turn tended to draw the winds back from over the states in the east."

That said, he stopped, as though the question was settled. Fortunately the designated spot is not thickly populated.

JAZZ AS ESSENCE OF STRONG PEP

Mae Murray believes that jazz and dancing provides the "pep" that persons who are indoors a greater part of the day need. Miss Murray is herself a dancer of note, and was a star in Ziegfeld's Follies before she entered motion pictures. In her new Metro picture, "Fascination," presented by Robert Z. Leonard, which is now running at the Glendale Theatre, the popular star introduces a number of new dances.

"Jazz and dancing are twins for most of us, anyhow," says Miss Murray. "They may criticize jazz music as 'savage' and everything else, but the fact remains that it stirs something inside of you that makes you feel like dancing. It sort of 'peps' you all up and makes you feel good."
